■ School Philosophy

[School Philosophy]

The university has a "school education based on Christian world view" as a school philosophy, and set out the educational motto of "Hominis Dignitati" to provide specific direction for that school philosophy.

[Purpose]

The graduate school of the university aims to have students study and conduct research on advanced and specialized academic theories and applications to deepen their understanding of their respective fields based upon the foundation they developed in their undergraduate studies. With a Christian world view, the program aims to cultivate people who will contribute to the progress of culture and the welfare of mankind as members of society who have a deep awareness of human dignity.

Therefore, the university aims to accept capable people who have the necessary knowledge to engage in specialized research, and furthermore apply these research results to improve social life and humanity while respecting human dignity.

■ Three Policies

At the university, with the educational motto "for human dignity", a diploma policy (degree awards policy), curriculum policy (curriculum preparation / implementation policy), and admission policy (policy of accepting admissions) has been established for each graduate course and major of the graduate school. Please refer to the following web page for more information on these three policies:

■ Purpose of Entrance Examinations for Foreigners Residing in Japan

Graduate School of Humanities

The Graduate Program in Christian Thought and Graduate Program in Religious Thought nurture researchers through specialized education in the three areas of theology, philosophy, and religious studies and conduct educational training for priests, monks, and believers. So far, this program has accepted a number of international students and foreigners residing in Japan in these domains of study. In particular, for the convenience of foreign applicants residing in Japan, an entrance examination system wherein applicants are examined only through an essay and an oral examination has been established.

In the Graduate Program in Linguistic Science, the two pillars are theories of grammar and language acquisition (acquisition of the native language and second language). This program nurtures language specialists who aim to construct a universal theory of human language while studying the mechanisms of the acquisition of the first language and of second language and who can go beyond the boundaries of individual language research and play an active role internationally from a broader perspective.

Graduate School of International Area Studies

The Graduate Program of International Area Studies offers a diverse curriculum in international area studies and accepts foreign students with the aim of fostering talented, proactive individuals who can play an active role in promoting welfare and mutual understanding in the increasingly globalized international community. Although this school has accepted international students in the past as well, it has established an entrance examination system for foreigners residing in Japan to enable them to take the entrance exam.

Graduate School of Social Sciences

Given the fact that the number of foreigners residing in Japan including international students is increasing, the Graduate Program in Economics has established an examination system for foreign nationals residing in Japan with the aim of contributing to the internationalization of the university. This is an entrance examination for foreigners living in Japan who aspire to pursue a Master's degree in the Graduate Program in Economics irrespective of whether the applicants have any work experience or not or whether they are now students or have already graduated.

Graduate School of Law

Given the fact that foreigners residing in Japan including international students are increasing, the Graduate Program in Law has established an examination system for foreign national residing in Japan with the aim of contributing to the internationalization of the university. This is an entrance examination for foreigners living in Japan who aspire to pursue a Master's degree in the Graduate Program in Law irrespective of whether the applicants have any work experience or not or whether they are students or have already graduated.

Graduate School of Sciences and Engineering

The Graduate School of Sciences and Engineering has so far accepted international students and foreigners residing in Japan in each of its departments (the Graduate Program of Systems and Mathematical Sciences, the Graduate Program of Software Engineering, the Graduate Program of Mechatronics, the Graduate Program of Data Science). Given the current situation wherein proactive involvement of foreign human resources is expected, the department has established an entrance examination system for foreigners living in Japan to enable them to conveniently take the entrance exam in order to promote the acceptance of excellent human resources who have a global perspective in the field of sciences and engineering.

■ Admission Review Contents 【April 2024 Admission】

2. Application Requirements

Foreign nationals living in Japan, people who fulfill any of the following, or people who are expected to fulfill them by the end of March 2024, and who meet the requirements indicated by each major are eligible to apply. However, if you are applying for the spring examination, you are required to possess a residence status valid for study at the time of application. In addition, the validity of the period of residence for those whose status is that of “foreign student” must extend beyond the last day of the enrollment procedure.

Master’s Course (in Japan, often referred to as the First Term of Doctoral Program)

- (1) People who have graduated from university
- (2) People who have been awarded a bachelor's degree by the National Institution for Academic Degrees and University Evaluation
- (3) People who have completed a 16-year course in school education in a foreign country
- (4) People who have completed a 16-year course in school education of a foreign country by completing a lesson course through correspondence education conducted by a foreign school and taken in Japan
- (5) People who have completed a relevant course in an educational institution positioned in a relevant foreign country's school education system as having a course (limited to people who have completed a 16-year course in the relevant foreign country's school education) of a foreign university in Japan, and designated separately by the Minister of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology as having completed said course
- (6) People who have been awarded a degree equivalent to a bachelor's degree by completing a course at a foreign university or other foreign school (limited to those that have been comprehensively assessed by receiving certification from the relevant foreign country's government or authority concerned or those designated separately by the Minister of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology as equivalent thereto) with a term of over 3 years (Including the completion of a relevant course by completing a lesson course through correspondence education conducted by a relevant foreign country's school in Japan, and the completion of a course that received designation of the preceding issue as an educational institution positioned as the relevant foreign country's school education system.)
- (7) People who have completed a specialized course (limited to those that meet the criteria specified by the Minister of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology including a study period of at least 4 years) at an advanced vocational school designated separately by the Minister of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology since the day specified by the Minister of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology
- (8) People designated by the Minister of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology
- (9) People recognized to have an academic ability equal to or greater than those who graduated from university, by individual entrance qualification review, for each graduate course of the university's graduate school, and who will be 22 years old by the end of March 2024

[Note] Graduates of various schools such as junior colleges, technical colleges, and vocational schools, fall under applicant requirement (9). Those wishing for the "individual entrance qualification review" should request the Admissions Office a "brief history" (prescribed form I) form related to an individual review, and submit it in an envelope with "individual review documents enclosed" clearly written on it. This needs to be postmarked by May 17, 2023 (Wednesday) in the case of applications in Summer and by November 9, 2023 (Thursday) in the case of applications in Spring. Please be sure to enclose a certificate of academic record and academic transcript (sealed).

5. Important Points about Application Documents

- (1) The name, address, and other personal information provided at the time of application to enroll will be used in the implementation of entrance examinations, announcement of success in acceptance, enrollment procedures and other relevant matters, plus as reference material for guidance after enrollment.
Some of these will be carried out by companies contracted by Nanzan University (hereafter referred to as contractors) to fulfil these duties. All or part of the personal information that you have provided will be forwarded to the contractors to allow them to fulfil their duties.
Personal information data that has been statistically processed so as to prevent identification of the individual will be used as survey and research material designed to assist selection of students for enrollment by the University.
Thank you for your understanding.
- (2) A health certificate is not required to be submitted with your application. A medical examination will be conducted at the university after admission.
- (3) If the application documents are not in Japanese or English, please attach a Japanese or English translation prepared by an official institution. If you only have one original copy of a document to be submitted, please submit a copy after receiving certification that it is a certified copy.
- (4) Submission of application documents 4 and 5 is not required if you marked "yes" for "individual entrance qualification review". However, please enclose a copy of the review notification.

6. Attention to be Taken when Completing Application Documents

If writing application documents by hand, please carefully fill them out with a black or blue fountain or ballpoint pen in block letters. You can also complete the documents on your computer using the prescribed forms from our website.

(1) Entrance application form (Prescribed form①)

- Please fill in the name of the applicant (phonetic), encircle the appropriate gender with ○, and enter the date of birth.
- If you change your surname due to marriage, etc. and the surname stated on various certificates etc. does not match your surname at the time of filing, please submit the document stating the surname change on an extract of the family register, etc.
- With respect to educational background, fill in the name of the university, department, subjects (or name of graduate school, graduate course, department). Also, fill in the date of graduation (or completion), expected graduation (or expected completion) and encircle graduation (or expected graduation, other) with a ○.
- For the address, fill in the name of the prefecture in the first column, the name of the city/district in the second, the name of the town/village in the third, the street or house number in the fourth, and the name of the apartment or building in the fifth column. In the address, omit "large section of village", "section of village", and "city block". Further, when filling in details, please omit the apartment or building "block" and "number".
- This address will be used as a contact address for the period from application to admission procedure (such as a mailing address for an admission ticket for examination and result notification), so please make sure that it is an address at which we can contact you.
- Please fill in your nationality, name as in your passport, status of residence, period of residence, and residence card number.

(2) Photo Form (Prescribed form②)

- Fill in the name of the applicant (phonetic) and encircle the appropriate gender with a ○.
- Affix a color photograph of the front upper half body of the applicant with head uncovered and no background, taken within three months before application submission and of size length 4cm×width 3cm, after writing the name of the graduate course, name of department, and name of applicant on the rear of the photograph.

(3) Entrance Application Form (Prescribed form③)

- Select the main research area and encircle it with a ○.

- Select the language in which you plan to write your Graduate Program in International Area Studies doctoral thesis (Doctoral Program) and encircle it with a ○.
- Applicants wishing to enter the Graduate Program in International Area Studies or the Graduate Program in Economics (doctoral course) should enter the name of the faculty member they hope to have as their research supervisor.
- Applicants to the Graduate Program in Economics and Graduate School of Sciences and engineering must consult with the faculty member they hope to have as their research supervisor regarding their research topic and research plan before applying. After consultation, please obtain the signature of the faculty member on the application form.
- Graduate Program in Law: Fill in the name of the faculty member one hopes to have as research supervisor.
- Describe your educational history so that there would be no blank period after elementary school.

(4) Study Plan (Prescribed form④) *Please make a copy if space is insufficient.

- For the method of entry for each department, please fill in as per the following table.

※<Applicants to the Graduate School of Humanities and Graduate School of Sciences and Engineering

(doctoral course)>In principle, a Doctoral Program study plan should be three years. However, applicants who have certain research achievements after completing their Master’s program may be exempt from taking the first year research course, so making the length of the course of study two years. In case the applicant wishes to complete the course in two years, please indicate this in the study plan. If it is considered that it is possible to complete the course in two years, this will be communicated by the concerned department.

Major (Course)	Entry Outline
Christian Thought (Master’s Course)	Summarize the [1] goals of education in graduate school [2] preparations so far for the research, and [3] detailed plan of activities for the first part of the doctoral program in about 1,000-1,500 words if in English or in about 2,000 words if in Japanese (typed sheets A4 size).
Religious Thought (Doctoral Course)	Summarize the [1] progress of your research so far, [2] future research topics, and [3] detailed study plan in the three-year second part doctoral program, in about 1,500 words if in English, and in about 4,000 words if in Japanese (typed sheets A4 size), and submit it along with other documents.
Linguistic Science (Master’s Course)	Write a statement of purpose including the following (a) and (b) in about 750 words in English or 2,000 characters in Japanese. (a) why you wish to join our program, what you have done to prepare, and how your study in our program will be related to your future career, and (b) which of the three areas in our program (Linguistics, Japanese Education or English Education) you wish to major in, and the topic(s) about which you wish to conduct your research.
Linguistic Science (Doctoral Course)	Write a statement of purpose including the following (a) and (b) in about 1,500 words in English or 4,000 characters in Japanese. (a) details of any relevant research you have conducted so far (or those applicants who are expecting to receive an MA should include an interim report of your research in progress), and (b) the topic(s) of your intended research and a research plan during the three years in our program.
International Area Studies (Master’s Course)	Please describe your research plan at Nanzan University graduate school in Japanese. Please provide details of 1) your research topic, 2) the literature you have read and the previous research you have carried out that is related to this topic, and 3) the expected results and their significance. Summarize your research undertaken at undergraduate level, work experience, your reason for applying to Nanzan University graduate school, major field and research course if your application is accepted, and career plan after graduation etc., in about 2,000 characters.

International Area Studies (Doctoral Course)	Please describe your research plan for Nanzan University graduate school in either Japanese or English. Include studies and experience to date, reasons for applying to the Nanzan University graduate school, major fields and research subjects if your application is accepted, and career plan after completion, and summarize it in about 4,000 characters in Japanese or about 1,500 words in English. *The Study Plan can be written in either Chinese, Indonesian, Malay, or Spanish in addition to Japanese and English as the focus is on the content so that applicants do not suffer a disadvantage due to language. Volume is based on Japanese or English.
Economics (Master's Course)	Summarize the reasons for aspiring to enter this program, the topic and gist of the graduation thesis (or Master's thesis) and the study and experience so far, the study plan in graduate school, and the plan after the end of graduate school in about 4,000 characters (typed A4 sheets), and submit a total of three, one original and two photocopies of this, along with the other application documents.
Law (Master's Course)	Summarize the reasons for aspiring to enter this graduate course, the study plan in the graduate course, and the plan after completion of graduate school in about 4,000 characters (typed A4 sheets), and submit it along with other application documents.
Sciences and Engineering (Master's Course) (Doctoral Course)	Summarize the reasons for aspiring to enter this graduate course, the current preparations for research (including the title and abstract of the graduation thesis or Master's thesis), detailed plan of research activities in the master's course or doctoral course in two typed sheets of A4 size paper, and submit it along with the other application documents.

(5) Comments of the advisor (faculty member) (Prescribed form⑥) (Only for applicants to the Graduate Program in Religious Thought)

To be directly filled in by the advisor (or faculty member in a similar position, or a faculty member who knows the applicant well).

(6) Letter of Recommendation (Prescribed form⑦) (Only for applicants to the Doctoral Course in the Graduate Program of Linguistic Science and Graduate Program in International Area Studies and Graduate Program of sciences and engineering.)

To be requested from a person who knows the character and academic ability of the applicant well.

(7) Request for shortening of the course of study (Prescribed form⑫) (Only for those applying for admission to the Graduate School of Humanities) (only those who wish to do so)

The period for a course of study may be shortened if certain set requirements are met. If a student wishes to finish their master's course or doctoral program in one year, please submit a "Request for shortening of the course of study" with the documents required when making application to enrol. However, please note that even if your request for shortening of the course of study is approved, that does not guarantee you acquiring your degree within your desired period of study. Please inquire at the Office of the Graduate School of Humanities for further details.

5. Important Points about Application Documents

- (1) The name, address, and other personal information provided at the time of application to enroll will be used in the implementation of entrance examinations, announcement of success in acceptance, enrollment procedures and other relevant matters, plus as reference material for guidance after enrollment.
Some of these will be carried out by companies contracted by Nanzan University (hereafter referred to as contractors) to fulfil these duties. All or part of the personal information that you have provided will be forwarded to the contractors to allow them to fulfil their duties.
Personal information data that has been statistically processed so as to prevent identification of the individual will be used as survey and research material designed to assist selection of students for enrollment by the University.
Thank you for your understanding.
- (2) A health certificate is not required to be submitted with your application. A medical examination will be conducted at the university after admission.
- (3) If the application documents are not in Japanese or English, please attach a Japanese or English translation prepared by an official institution. If you only have one original copy of a document to be submitted, please submit a copy after receiving certification that it is a certified copy.
- (4) Submission of application documents 4 and 5 is not required if you marked “yes” for “individual entrance qualification review”. However, please enclose a copy of the review notification.
